JOHN QUINCY ADAMS ON THE REPUBLICAN PARTY.

A SPIRITED SKETCH.

Look again at Missouri. This is an honest division of opinion among honored and eminent leaders of the Republican party on a question of principle. Mr. Gratz Brown and Senator Schurz maintain that it is a parody on equal rights to give votes to every black man in the State, and to refuse to give votes at the same time to fifty thousand white men. And so I think, and so you think, and so thinks the honest half of the Republican party. And yet President Grant meets this debate how? By argument? He cannot speak. By ideas? He has none. By persuasion? 'T is of such kind as he knows; and the only kind his party uses—proscription, force, "war power." He turns out of office all who differ from him. I tell you my friends, the fault is in the whole grand, systematic combined and consolidated paraphernalia of autocracy, denominated the Republican party. From its Pharisaical flaunking of God that it is so much more moral than other parties are, through the hypocritical humbug which professes to cite the Declaration of Independence, with its assertion that "Governments derive their power from the consent of the governed," its defense of "reconstruction," down to the flagrant fraud which protests that it protects equally by a tariff, which allows the employer to charge monopoly prices, whilst the employed must starve on Chinese wages, from top to bottom; from end to end—the thing is a rotten and corrupt oligarchy of money. And now, fellow-citizens, you may fairly ask what we have to propose if you give the power to the Democratic party. I will tell you and it is easy to tell, for I have no new thing to discover. The principles of Democracy are as old as the government itself, and they are as plain as the sun at noon-day. The doctrine is the same that it was seventy years ago, and will be seventy years hence. Democracy, in a word, begins at the other end altogether. It takes the individual as the starting point, and says that he is the important matter, and your government is only the incident and creature of his convenience. It laughs at your preposterous idea that government is wiser and better than the people. It is aristocracy which assumes a superior merit to direct and advise its subjects.—It is monarchy by grace of God which pretends to this power of cosseting and dangling its children. It is imperialism which conquers and administers abject and subject provinces. Democracy leaves each man free to seek his own happiness, provided he does not injure his neighbor. Why, my friends, even the language of the Radical newspaper and stump swells of the obsequious spirit which bows to an aristocracy of speculators and money-changers and shop-keepers. What is this their favorite charge against all who differ from them? "They are disloyal." What is that? Well, I will tell you. Loyalty is a word derived from old feudal times, and expresses the relation of a slave to his master; the subjection of a serf to his lord; the regard of the vassal for his king. The citizen is free, the subject is loyal.—Loyalty is no new thing. It was rampant here before the battle of Bunker's Hill.—Then, as now, the rich and high were most "loyal." The "loyalists," however, disliked the climate after the "Declaration." They are remembered as Tories now. Generals Warren and Putnam were "rebels" about the same time. Let the negro, if he likes, be loyal to his carpet bagger, and the office-holder to his patron, politician to his "government," but as for us, we will be content with the old fashioned ways of our fathers, and swear with them "to the best of our ability to preserve, protect and defend the constitution of the United States."

North Carolina is $30,000,000 in debt. Tennessee has been plunged in debt since the close of the war to an extent which not only suggests repudiation, but makes the suggestion one which may be entertained without dishonesty. Bullock, in Georgia, has taken possession of the State railroads and squandered their revenues. The State Treasurer says the Governor has plundered the State. The Radicals in Alabama had schemes for saddling on the State a debt of about $24,000,000 for railroad enterprises. Harrison Reed, the Governor of Florida, with the help of a Legislature composed of negroes and carpet-baggers, has increased the debt of the State to an extent which makes payment of it impossible.

The facts will help to make impressive the subjoined, from a North Carolina correspondent of the New York Tribune:

"Plainly, the curse of the State, has been a set of migratory cormorants, who are now fast leaving bills unpaid and bonds forfeited for deficits in their accounts."

Who are these disreputable demagogues? What inducements were offered them to go to North Carolina? Under what laws were the decent men in the State loaded with political disabilities, and the "cormorants" and negroes made the only class capable of holding civil offices?—Chicago Times.

JOHN C. BRECKINRIDGE, at the Lee meeting in Louisville, said, among other things:

If the spirit that animates the assembly before me to-night shall become general and extended over the whole country, then indeed we may say that the wounds of the late war truly are healed. We ask only for him, what we concede to the many qualities of others. Among the more eminent Federal generals who fell during the war, or have since died, may be mentioned Thomas and McPherson. What Confederate would refuse to raise his cap as their funeral trains pass by? [Applause.] Or grudge to drop a flower upon their soldiers' graves? And why? Because they were men of courage and honor, true to their convictions of right, and soldiers whose hands were unstained by cruelty or pillage. [Great applause.]

An old man is much easier to rob than a young one, for his locks are few, and his gait is generally broken.

The one single individual who voted the Democratic ticket in Winnebago County, Ind., at the late election, was totally blind.

Whole Certificates, $5; Halves $2 50; Quarters, $1 25.

WHAT THE CITY PRESS SAY:

PRIZE DRAWING.—Quite a crowd assembled at the Theatre yesterday noon, to witness the Grand Drawing of the North Carolina Beneficial Association. There were 100 prizes in all, and little rolls of paper separating these were placed in a wheel on one side, while the tickets were in another wheel opposite to the former. Between the two was a table, at which sat the Judges and Mr. John London, Commissioner. The wheels were made with glass sides, so that everything within them could be seen and were securely locked, until the drawing began. This was done by means of two little boys, who were securely blindfolded, one drawing a number from one of the wheels and the other the prize to correspond with it. There is no question but that the drawing was done in a perfectly fair and just manner.—Wilmington Daily Journal, Dec. 2nd.

THE GRAND DRAWING YESTERDAY.—The grand single number distribution of the N. C. Beneficial Association, which took place at the Theatre yesterday, at 1 o'clock, was the all-absorbing theme during the day. The drawing took place in public, a committee having been selected from the audience to act with the Commissioner in keeping an account of the same and to see that it was conducted fairly. Quite a respectable crowd was present to witness the drawing. The following numbers drew the principal prizes: No. 3310, $5,000; No. 6006, $2,500; No. 5776, $2,000; No. 2842, $2,000; No. 1407, $2,000; No. 4412, $1,000; No. 1489, $500. The Certificate No. 1407 was sold to a citizen of Wilmington, N. C.—Wilmington Morning Star, Dec. 2nd.

J. H. HORNER, } Associate Principals.
R. H. GRAVES, }

THIS SCHOOL which has been for the last twenty years under the exclusive charge of J. H. Horner, will henceforth be conducted under the joint supervision of the above principals with competent assistant instructors in every department.

The course of study has been extended, and boys will be thoroughly fitted for advanced classes in College, especial reference being had to the qualifications requisite to admission into the Senior classes in the University of Virginia, of Washington Lee University. The latter of which has again conferred upon the school the honor of a scholarship in that Institution.

A regular course of study in Natural Sciences, Commercial Science and the Modern Languages has been added to the school for those students, who, desiring to acquire only a complete business education may wish to substitute these studies for Latin and Greek.

No pains will be spared to render the instruction in the school efficient and to furnish to students the most ample facilities for thorough preparation for College or for the acquisition of a good business education; and the principals flatter themselves that their long and successful career as teachers is a sufficient guarantee that the school will be in all respects worthy the public confidence and support.

The Spring Session will open the second Monday in January.

Circulars containing terms and full particulars furnished upon application to either of the principals.

RAILROADS AND STATE CREDIT.

There is not a citizen of the State who has a spark of genuine State pride in his bosom, who does not feel a deep and abiding interest in the completion and success of our works of internal improvements. Indeed, so strong is this feeling and desire throughout the State, that our Legislatures have upon various occasions, favored measures for their benefit that might be looked upon as almost bordering on imprudence, and have voted taxes upon the people that would hardly have been tolerated for any other purpose.

The public sentiment throughout the State now, is in favor of completing our unfinished Railroads as soon as possible,—But how is it to be done? The State, with every disposition to help is powerless. The management of her finances by the present administration, has most effectually prostrated her credit. Her bonds, in aid of Railroads or anything else, would be worth about as much as so much blank paper. Her new bonds are now quoted at twenty cents on the dollar, with the matured coupons attached. Under such circumstances to put more bonds on the market would be nonsense. This method then of aiding our unfinished Railroads is out of the question at present.

To assist in the prosecution of the work on our Railroads by direct taxation, will give rise to the question, can our people bear it, in addition to the other burdens of taxation which will necessarily rest on them for some time to come, owing to the present exhausted condition of the Treasury, the new item of expense for the Penitentiary building, and the large amount to meet the salaries of new and useless public functionaries of various names and grades? We do not believe that such an additional burden could be borne by the people, nor ought it to be laid on them at present.

Our opinion is that the better and wiser course for us to pursue is, to set about repairing the damage that has been done to the finances and credit of the State by past mismanagement and corruption; rebuild her credit as soon as possible and place the State in a condition to give such prudent aid to works of internal improvement as the necessities and prosperity of the different localities of the State in which they are located, require. We are aware that such a course will involve delay in the prosecution of our public works. This is to be regreted, but can it be avoided?

In the mean time we hope the Legislature in its wisdom may be able to devise some plan by which the works may be kept at least from decay and injury, and even carried on, as far as practicable, towards completion. If our State credit had not been killed so perfectly dead by the unscrupulous, extravagant and dishonest legislation of the party recently in power in the State, the difficulties in the way would not be so great; it will require a display of wisdom, prudence and financial skill of no common order, to overcome these difficulties and place the State and her works of internal improvement in that condition of prosperity and usefulness, which every true son of the State desires to see inaugurated.

We are glad to see that there is a disposition manifested on the part of the General Assembly to do all that can be done, in our crippled condition, for our unfinished roads, by husbanding and properly applying the few resources at command, and giving them all the aid in the power of the State to afford.

GRANNY OLDS.—This old gentleman, "Dad's" son-in-law, when the Senate had under consideration the repeal of the odious Shoffner military bill, by which, with the aid of Judge Pearson, Holden's agents hung and massacred citizens without a hearing, threatened, if the law was repealed and the State failed to suppress outrages, that Congress would take the matter in hand. No doubt "my son-in-law, Louis," feels a deep and abiding interest in the Shoffner bill, and a family connection with the acts perpetrated under it, yet it is a little remarkable that "Dad," who is so fond of giving places of trust and profit to his sons, did not give Joe, or Calvin, or Louis, a commission in his State Troops. It was not from a feeling of delicacy that he did not do it, for we all know he appointed Louis Attorney-General, and made Joe and Calvin directors in two railroads, but he could not trust his precious boy's lives in the army!

Mr. Horace Greeley says, in regard to Admiral Porter's last letter:

"Since Henry of Germany stood shivering in his penance-shirt under the snowy towers of Pope Gregory, we doubt if the world has seen any such abject spectacle of contrition as is exhibited in Admiral Porter's letter of recantation to the President. A Briton could scarcely have penned words of more slavish devotion to his offended Queen. A school-boy could scarcely have been driven into such cringing remorse by the brandishing of birch. We cannot read this lachrymose love-letter without the exclamation of Bolingbroke at the bedside of the dying poet rising to our lips—'Alas! poor human nature!'

"Altogether, the letter is insufferable, and its details are more intolerable than the general impression. The latter ought never to have been written, and every line of it is a separate aggravation of the original fault."

Legislature of North Carolina.

SENATE.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 14, 1870.

The Senate was called to order at the usual hour.

Mr. Fleming was permitted to record his vote in opposition to Mr. Brogden's resolution relative to the Senatorial election in Alamance and Guilford.

Messrs. Robbins, Gilmer, Currie and Latham made reports from their respective Committees.

A message was read from the House transmitting sundry bills, passed by that body asking the concurrence of the Senate.

A bill concerning the election of keeper of the Capitol, was read and an amendment by the House concurred in.

A bill from the House appointing a commission to investigate alleged frauds and illegalities connected with the election in the conty of Wayne, was read.

On motion of Mr. McClammy, the rules were suspended and the bill passed its several readings.

A resolution relating to the public printing (heretofore noticed;) passed.

A communication from the Code Commission transmitting a bill fixing certain fees, &c., was presented.

Mr. Gilmer moved the reference of the bill to the Judiciary without being read.

Mr. Love opposed the reference. It was well known, by himself and others, that by a vote of the last Legislature this Code Commission was abolished, but by some means the bill was made way with and not ratified. It was an imposition upon the State as the matter now stands, and he was not disposed to recognize this Code Commission in any manner, whatever; he therefore moved to lay it on the table.

The vote was taken and the motion prevailed.

Mr. Lehman introduced a bill, prepared by the Code Commission, amending the Code of Civil Procedure.

During the reading of the bill, Mr. Warren inquired if this was not the same bill that had been laid on the table, as coming from the Code Commission.

Mr. Lehman replied, saying that the bill was introduced by himself, that he had not received it from the clerk.

Mr. Warren had opposed the reference of the bill, and he believed that this attempt to get the bill before the House was a subterfuge. He therefore moved its rejection.

Mr. Lehman said that he had introduced the bill—having adopted it as his own. It was true that he did not draw the bill. It was not unusual for Senators to introduce bills that were not drawn by themselves. He said that to dispose of this bill in the manner indicated by the Senator from Beaufort, would in effect be to deny him his rights as a Senator.

Mr. Warren disclaimed any intention of treating the Senator from Craven (Mr. L.) with disrespect. For him he entertained high respect. It was however evident, that this was a subterfuge, and he could not characterize it as anything else. The Senate has just declined to consider this very bill, coming from the Code Commission.

Mr. Lehman, disclaimed offering the bill as a subterfuge. He was aware that gentlemen entertained serious objections to the Code of Civil Proceedure. He entertained objections to it himself. He thought it susceptable of amendments. He thought, this bill would exhibit to the Senate the fact that it could be so improved, as not to necessitate the abolishment of the Code.

Mr. Robbins of Davidson, hoped the motion to reject would prevail. It was a notorious fact that the Commission, framing this bill had been abolished but by dereliction of duty, not to say gross fraud, the act had been suppressed. He therefore should vote to reject this bill.

Mr. Love would not infringe upon any right of the Senator from Craven, but the bill introduced by him purports to be framed by the Code Commission and not by the Senator himself. He was opposed to either directly or indirectly recognising that Commission.

Mr. Dargan, would be as far as any man from reflecting on any gentleman in this Senate, but he favored the passage of this motion to reject. He did not deem the recommendations of this Commission entitled to any respect or consideration at the hands of the Legislature.

Its duties had ceased. It had been abolished. It seemed however, that it was a kind of feline character, with about nine lives, and when we thought it dead, it keeps creeping in these halls.

Mr. Murphy would vote for this motion, but in doing so he designed no reflection upon the Senator from Craven. He thought it an outrage that this Code Commission was yet forcing themselves upon the attention of this Senate. He well recollected that the bill abolishing the Code Commission passed the last Legislature. It had been suppressed and he hoped that steps would be taken to investigate the matter, and that the guilty parties would be discovered and properly punished.

Mr. Brogden agreed with the Senator relative to the passage of the bill abolishing the Code Commission, but he thought that this bill should be referred.

Mr. Lehman argued to show that the Code Commission was a constitutional requirement and could not be abolished by a mere act of the Legislature. He reiterated that he did not offer the bill as a report of the Commission but had adopted as his own.

Mr. Olds said he thought the object of this whole matter was to render the Code odious, with a view of advancing the interest of a call of a Convention.

The question recurring on the motion to reject, it was carried, yeas 29, nays 13.

Mr. Cook from the Committee on Constitutional Reform, reported a Convention bill. The bill provides for submitting the queston of calling a Convention to a vote of the people on the 16th of February next—delegates to be elected at the same time and restricts the Convention, not permitting any interference with either the political or civil status of the freedman, or alteration of the homestead or personal property exemption, or mechanics lien law.

After some discussion the further consideration was postponed until to-morrow, 11 o'clock.

Mr. Gilmer introduced a bill providing for an election in the 26th Senatorial District, on the 24th of December, to fill a vacancy.

Under a suspension of the rules, the bill passed its several readings.

On motion of Mr. Robbins of Davidson, a message was sent to the House informing that body of the concurrence of the Senate in the amendment to the bill relating to the election of keeper of the Capitol.

By Mr. Gilmer: A bill concerning elections in this State; it prohibits voting at any precinct other than the township in which the voter resides, and permits challenge after registration; referred.

A message from the House transmitting an engrossed bill explanatory of the acts relative to the Wilmington, Charlotte and Rutherford Railroad.

Referred to Committee on Internal Improvements, on Mr. McClammy's motion.

By Mr. Warren: A bill to amend Revised Code, relative to Divorce and Alimony. Mr. W. stated that he did not draw the bill, and did not wish to be understood as endorsing it.

By Mr. Merrimon: A bill for the benefit of the Western North Carolina Railroad. This bill provides for a meeting of the stockholders of the Road, after a notice of thirty days, by publication in a daily newspaper, in the city of Raleigh, and the weekly newspapers in the towns of Salisbury, Statesville and Ashville; and empowering the stockholders to remove any director, officer, or agent of said Road, upon proper cause shown.

The bill appoints as Directors on the part of the State: F. N. Lucky, of Rowan, A. C. Cowles, of Yadkin, Hugh Reynolds, of Iredell, Lock, McCorkle, of Catawba, Joseph C. Mills, of Burke, C. L. S. Coppening, of McDowell; and R. J. Aston and David Coleman, of Buncombe, and Alfred M. Erwin, of McDowell, State proxies.

The bill provides that the Speaker of the House of Representatives shall hereafter annually appoint the directors on the part of the State.

It also makes it a misdemeanor, punishable with fine and imprisonment, for any director, officer, or agent of the road to fail or refuse to turn over all moneys, bonds, property or effects forthwith to the new board, or to use any money or other property of the Road, to prosecute suit against the new Board to delay them.

On Mr. Love's motion, the bill fixing salaries and fees was taken up and considered by sections.

Considerable discussion was elicited upon an amendment offered by Mr. Cowles, to strike out dollars and insert cents in the section fixing the salary of the Superintendent of Public Works; the motion finally prevailed. The further consideration of the bill was postponed for the present.

The resolution in favor of M. A. Biedsoe coming up—

Mr. Graham said that in view of the fact that the Senate was then thin, he moved the postponement of its consideration until Friday next; carried.

The Senate then adjourned until 10 o'clock Thursday.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

WEDNESDAY, Dec. 14.

House called to order at the usual hour. Prayer by Rev. Dr. Mason of the city.

Journal of yesterday read and approved.

Mr. Sparrow, from the Judiciary Committee, submitted the following report in regard to impeachment:

"The Judiciary Committee, to whom was referred, on the 9th of December, the following resolution, namely:

"Resolved, That William W. Holden, Governor of North Carolina, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors in office," —have considered the same, and submit the following report:

That William W. Holden, Governor of North Carolina, unmindful of his oath of office, did, in July last, organize, arm and equip a military force, not recognized by, and in subversion of the Constitution of the State of North Carolina, which military force, so unlawfully organized, was not kept under subordination to and governed by the civil power, but was, by the order of the said William W. Holden, Governor as aforesaid, made paramount to, and subversive of the civil authority.

That the said William W. Holden, Governor as aforesaid, did, in the months of July and August last, without lawful warrant and authority, and in defiance and subversion of the Constitution, arrest and imprison many of the peaceable and law-abiding citizens of the State, depriving them of their liberties and privileges, and certain of said citizens, so unlawfully arrested and imprisoned, did cause to be subjected to cruel and unusual punishments.

That the said William W. Holden, Governor as aforesaid, denied to citizens, unlawfully restrained of their liberty by his authority, all remedy to inquire into the lawfulness thereof, and in defiance of the Constitution, the Laws, and the Process of the Courts, he suspended the privileges of the writ of habeas corpus, claiming that he was governed by a "supreme law," whereby he could deny the privileges of the said writ when, in his opinion, the safety of the State required it.

In view of the matters herein set forth, combining historical facts, with statements contained in public documents, and the records of the Public Departments and the Courts, the undersigned, members of the Committee, who are a majority thereof, are of the opinion, that William W. Holden, Governor of the State of North Carolina, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors. They therefore recommend to the House, the adoption of the accompaning resolution.

Resolved, That William W. Holden, Governor of the State of North Carolina, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors in office.

The report was read and placed on the calendar.

Mr. Rankin, from the Committee on Salaries and Fees, Mr. McNeill, from the Committee on Propositions and Grievances, and Mr. Crawford, from the Committee on Engrossed Bills, submitted reports from their respective Committees.

By Mr. Robinson: A resolution in favor of John Crisp of Macon county; referred.

By the same: A resolution in favor of R. W. Parton of Haywood county; referred.

By Mr. Carson: A resolution in regard to re-opening post offices, &c.; placed on calendar.

By Mr. Jordan: A bill to create a commission to inquire into bribery and corruption; referred.

By Mr. Dunham: A bill for the relief of the people of the county of Craven; referred.

By Mr. Lassiter: A bill to waive the homestead act in certain cases; referred.

By Mr. Robinson: A bill to amend chapter 3, sections 14 and 15, Revised Code, (the bill provides for the appointment of an assistant Geologist.)

By Mr. Anderson: A bill to incorporate Clay Lodge, No. 301, A. Y. M., at Hayesville; referred.

By Mr. Welch: A bill to repeal an ordinance of the Convention of 1868, appointing Commissioners to prepare a code of practice and procedure in the different Courts of the State; referred.

By Mr. Justice: A bill to repeal certain ordinances of the Convention of 1868; referred.

Several bills from the Code Commission, were read and appropriately referred.

Mr. Johnston of Buncombe, from the Special Committee on Constitutional Reform, reported favorably upon the bill calling a Convention, with certain amendments. The bill with amendments were placed on the calendar and ordered to be printed.

On motion of Mr. Strudwick, the rules were suspended and the resolution reported by the Judiciary Committee impeaching W. W. Holden, Governor of North Carolina, was taken up.

Dudley, col., moved to lay it on the table. The yeas and nays being called, the motion was rejected by a vote of yeas 37, nays 61, (a party vote.)

Mr. French said that there was no evidence upon which to base such a resolution.

Mr. Sparrow said he must express his surprise at the course pursued by the gentlemen on the other side of the House. He had supposed that for once a resolution had been introduced into this House which would meet the approval of all parties. An assault has been made by the Chief Executive officer of the Commonwealth upon the Constitution and the laws of the State, which he was sworn to defend. The people of the State of North Carolina demanded of their representatives a vindication of the outraged law. Indeed the public sentiment of the whole country demanded it. The accredited organ of the Governor, published in this city, had demanded of this House that the Governor be allowed at the bar of the Senate to vindicate his character against what it characterizes as slanders. After this demand by the Governor himself, he was surprised at the course pursued by the Governor's friends on the floor of this House. The gentlemen from New Hanover wished to know upon what testimony the Committee based their action in this matter.

Upon evidence, sir, which is now matter of public history, and known to every member of the House and the whole country. Upon evidence reported to us by the Governor himself in his annual message, and also from evidence on file in the records of the Courts and in the hands of the members of this House. Evidence which we not only may, but are bound to take notice of. We do not sit here to try the Governor; this is the province of the Senate. The members of which will sit as sworn jurors, and where the Governor will be entitled to a full and fair trial.

Mabson, col., said the resolution of impeachment, presented by the Judiciary Committee, was sustained by no evidence.

Mr. Martin said that he looked at this matter from no partizan standpoint, but as a law-loving and law-abiding citizen. He thought the matter should rise high above all partizanship. If the law has been violated, and the rights of the citizens disregarded, the perpetrators of the outrage should be punished. In reference to all these allusions about Ku Klux, Invisible Empire, &c., he would state here that he never had any connection with any secret political organization since the days of Know Nothingism, and he was heartily ashamed of that. He was opposed to all secret political societies, including the Loyal League. As to the nakedness of this resolution, or the lack of evidence, as some say, he would call the attention of the House to the fact that there was high precedent for the resolution. John Covode, in the House of Representatives in the Congress of the United States, in the Andrew Johnson impeachment case, offered a resolution which read something like this:

"Resolved, That Andrew Johnson, President of the United States, be impeached of high crimes and misdemeanors in office."

Did Republican members rise up and cry out that there was no evidence upon which to base such a resolution? No one need be alarmed, for at the proper time, if this resolution should pass, evidence would certainly be forthcoming for the consideration of the Senate. The justification of calling out of the militia did not enter the question, but as far as he (Mr. Martin) knew no militia was called out; the officers of that hand signed themselves as belonging to "State Troops."

Crimes have been committed and still would be committed in all ages, climes and, he might say, in all counties. Only a few months ago, in New York a man by the name of Rogers was murdered in open daylight, on a much frequented street, and to this day there has been no clue to the murderer or murderers. In the same city more recently a prominent Banker was murdered in his house, and yet no clue has been obtained to lead to the detection of person or persons who committed the crime. If Governors of all the States were to called out the military every time murders and outrages were committed, they would do nothing else but call out the military.

It could not be denied that in certain counties outrages had been committed, but the use of the military had not been made in an impartial manner. In the county of Robeson there have been more diabolical outrages than in any other section of the State; yet no proclamation of insurrection is issued. Robeson was not subjected to the horrors that were inflicted upon the people of Alamance and Caswell by being proclaimed in a state of insurrection and having armed bands quartered on them.

He would support the resolution because it proposed to investigate serious charges against a sworn Executive.

Mr. Brown argued against the resolution.

Mr. Waring was in favor of the resolution, because serious charges of gross violations of the law of the land were made against the Executive of this State, and it was due to the fair fame of the State that if the charges were true, he should be impeached and turned out of office, and if not true, it was also due to the fair fame of the State that these foul charges against its Governor should be blotted out by a full and fair investigation as the law directs. He did not see how Republicans, who extol the patriotism and integrity of the Governor whom they elected to office, could oppose this, their only means to acquit the Gov. before the world of these damning charges. He did not know W. W. Holden in this matter, but he wished the serious charges brought against the Governor of North Carolina, to be freely and fairly investigated. He was a Conservative, but he came to this Legislature not to seek revenge for past wrongs, but to legislate and act for the integrity of his State.

If the charges of these violations of law by the Governor of the State, be true, why turn him out of office, if they are not true, why it will so appear at the trial, and he will have had the advantage of vindicating himself in the eyes of the world.

Messrs. Effison, col., and Sykes, col., opposed the resolution.

Mr. Justice (Republican) said while he thought the Governor had acted as he (the Governor) deemed best, for the preservation of peace, law and order, he could not consistently vote against the resolution, as serious charges were brought against the Governor, and he (Mr. Justice) wished an investigation and the truth known.

Mr. Sparrow said that he would state in behalf of the Judiciary Committee for the information of members, that the adoption of this resolution did not end the matter in this House. After the adoption of the resolution a Committee would be appointed to draft and present articles of impeachment which would be open for discussion by the House.

Mr. Phillips opposed the resolution in a speech of some length.

Messrs. Hargrove and Harris of Franklin opposed the resolution.

Mr. Sparrow called the previous question.

The yeas and nays were called and the call was rejected by a vote of yeas 37, nays 66.

Mr. Crawford in an able and eloquent speech advocated the resolution.

[The Reporter regrets that a lack of space and the lateness of the hour, makes it necessary to omit Mr. Crawford's remarks in order that the paper for the Western mail may not be delayed.]

Mr. French moved to postpone the resolution until the 16th of January.

Mr. Robinson hoped the motion to postpone would be considered as a test and voted down. He thought it due to the dignity of the House that the resolution should be acted upon to-day. He felt that this was a very important matter, and he had approached its consideration with a great deal of caution.

Mr. Strudwick also opposed the motion to postpone.

The yeas and nays were called and the motion to postpone was rejected by the following ballot:

YEAS.—Messrs. Adjourned.

A true son of the Old North State, residing at La Prairie, Illinois, writes as follows from that far off land, in regard to his native home and his feelings and sympathies for her welfare:

LA PRAIRIE, ILL., Dec. 7, 1870.

MR. EDITOR: * * * * I am pleased to see that the Legislature has made an advance movement, on the political chess-board, in the right direction in the election of the Hon. Z. B. Vance to the United States Senate, and I hope they will continue to move in the same direction, until they rid the State of all carpet-baggers and scallawags, and place her offices in the hands of honest, worthy and intelligent men that will not rob and defraud her of all her wealth and good character.

How I am delighted at the result of the late elections, and more especially that of my native State. I have much desired to see her rise in her majesty and shake off the incubus with which she has been infested, and place herself upon that high ground she once occupied, and say to her native scallawags "stand behind me Satan, thou savorest not of the things that make for my peace and good order."

I presume that Gov. Holden has long since seen the hand writing upon the wall, and his knees have already smote together like Belshaza's. "May his days be few and another take his office."

I like the idea of a Convention to restore the State to her former government. I am well aware of the inconvenience and expense of a government conducted on the plan of the State of Illinois; and I believe that North Carolina is about the same as Illinois. It requires heavy taxation to pay such a multitude of hungry officers.

I believe the present Legislature is composed of men who will give a new impetus to the State, by a course of wise and liberal legislation that will relieve (as much as can be done,) the State from her depressed and ruined condition. So mote it be.

Respectfully,

J. M. A. D.

NORTH CAROLINA ANNUAL CONFERENCE OF THE METHODIST PROTESTANT CHURCH.

LAST DAY.

Your correspondent has, for six days, looked in upon the sittings of this body convened in annual session, and now report the result of his observations on the last day's proceedings. There was a proclivity on the part of some of the members, both clerical and lay, to say and be heard, and surely if one had usual exercise of his auricular appendage, there was no need of any apprehension of a failure in the latter.

Those present continued throughout the session, with perhaps one layman, who bolted on Monday, and two ministers compelled to leave, did not continue till the doxology was announced. So the Conference was quite full from the morning of the second day till it closed.

A Committee consisting of Arch. Wilren, J. C. Roberts and W. O. Donnell, of Guilford, was appointed to audit the account entire, of and in reference to Jamestown Female College debt, at as early a day as practicable, to whom all papers should be sent, and reports of agents made.

The following, offered by Rev. Mr. Paris was adopted:

Resolved, That in order to succeed in this very important matter to the Church, this Conference appoint every Minister and preacher, under its appointing power, an agent to urge the subject upon the attention of the membership of his whole charge, and labor, if possible, to collect an average sum of fifty cents per member, or more upon his circuit; taking into consideration the former payments, for the liquidation of said debt, and bring it up to the next session of Conference.

The Conference Steward made an exhibit of the claims, receipts, deficiencies and excesses of the fields of operation in the bounds of the District, which shows the stringency in money matters, or want of liberality in some fields reported, while it is gratifying to learn that some came up to their standard, others even went beyond.

Albemarle Circuit—John Paris.
Tar River—J. H. Page.
Roanoke—T. H. Pegram.
Halifax—R. H. Wills.

PROF. CHANDLER of New York City, in a lecture delivered by him at Cooper Institute, March 19, 1870, said:

"It is hardly necessary to enlarge upon the terrible accidents which have resulted from the use of unsafe kerosene; you have only to read the newspapers from day to day to see them. It is stated by some that these are exaggerated; that these accidents never occur, and that you and I never had a friend burned to death; still we do have an enormous number of terrible accidents from petroleum. In the last seven months of 1869 there were fifty five kerosene accidents in New York, resulting in twenty-three deaths, eighteen serious injuries and fourteen slight ones. The total result for the year 1869, for the City of New York which I myself have cut from newspapers is fifty-two fatal accidents from dangerous kerosene, fifty severe and six slight, in all 108 persons to my knowledge, from my own reading have been injured by kerosene in one year."

We are requested to state that there will be a meeting of the Directors of the Masonic Temple Association at the office of Messrs. Nichols & Gorman at 7 1-2 o'clock, to-night.

I. O. O. F. CELEBRATION.—According to previous announcement, the members of Manteo Lodge No. 8, Independent Order of Odd Fellows, celebrated their anniversary on Tuesday evening. They met at their Lodge room, formed in procession, and, headed by the Raleigh Brass Band, marched in order to Metropolitan Hall, where a most respectable audience was in waiting to listen to the address of Most Worthy Grand Master Seaton Gales.

After several spirited pieces of music were played by the Band in the Hall, Noble Grand Wetherel introduced, in a few remarks, the speaker for the occasion.

It would require the publication of the address in full, to do it justice. Maj. Gales is one of the most agreeable and attractive speakers to whom we have ever listened, and having for his subject the principles and purposes of a noble Order, he proved himself fully equal to the occasion, and presented in eloquent terms, the grandness of the character of the Order of Odd Fellowship. Odd Fellowship—its origin, character, mission, and prospects, formed the subject-matter of his remarks.

He stated that the first order of Odd Fellows was established in the United States in 1819, by Thomas Wildey. It has spread until it embraces every State and Territory within the United States.—Its membership now numbers over 300,000, and constantly increasing. Its character was humanitarian and philanthropic, taking as its governing principle, the Golden Rule, "all things whatsoever ye would that men should do unto you, do ye even so unto them." Its mission was the moral, social and Christian elevation of the whole brotherhood of man. Its prospects such as should gratify every true philanthropist. Major Gales handled each branch of the subject in a masterly manner—and his whole discourse was elegant in diction, beautiful, at times sublime, in imagery, and eloquently appealing to the finer and nobler feeling of his auditors in behalf of those holy principles which form the foundation of the Order.

Upon the conclusion of the address, the members, with a number of invited guests, proceeded to the NATIONAL HOTEL, where Maj. Rutjes, its proprietor, had prepared for them an anniversary supper. In the preparation of this supper, Maj. R. has shown himself to be equal to great, as well as ordinary occasions. Not only our own domestic market was largely drawn upon, but the genial clime of France, and the warm, but none the less fruitful Isles of our Tropics were made to contribute to the feast. Maj. Rutjes has the unanimous thanks of every one present for the very superior entertainment he prepared for them.

The following toasts were tendered in order, all receiving pertinent responses:

I. The Grand Lodge of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows of North Carolina.—May prosperous gales waft it steadily onward and upward.

Response by Seaton Gales, M. W. Grand Master.

II. The State of North Carolina.—May God speed her.

Response by Thos. B. Baily.

III. Templar Lodge, No. 11, California.—May its rare liberality, in aiding to establish our Order in Europe, be an earnest of a universal Brotherhood.

Response by C. M. Busbee.

IV. The Press.—May its powers always be exerted in the cause of truth.

Response by John Nichols.

V. The Daughters of Rebekah,—

Oh God, bless woman with thy love,
With fairest honors deck her,
And clothe with beauty from above,
The daughters of Rebeckah!

Response by H. C. Prempert, P. F. Pescud, and others.

VI. Our Golden Chain.—May it continue to increase, until with its links of Friendship, Love and Truth, it encircles the world.

Response by J. C. L. Harriss.

Many volunteer toasts were offered and responded to.

The Raleigh Brass Band sustained its high reputation, as first-rate musicians.

At a late hour an adjournment took place, all greatly pleased with the ceremonies entire, and earnestly wishing very many happy anniversaries of Manteo Lodge of Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

TUCKER HALL.—We learn that Mr. R. DORAY Ogden, Lessee and Manager, has telegraphed and engaged Tucker Hall for the "Sapphic English Opera Troupe," for the 19th, 20th and 21st insts.

O. K., who writes from New York City, to the Orange County Press, evidently has found out that Baldwin, the Clothier, corner Broadway and Canal Streets, New York, is the man of all others, for good, cheap, and superior clothing. His letter is an interesting one, and we advise all to read it.

PERSONAL.—Capt. J. H. Miller, General Agent Southern Life Insurance Company of Augusta, Ga., is in the city, stopping at the National Hotel.

THE REVIVAL at the Baptist Church continues with unabated interest and increased prospect of good. Between eighty and a hundred have professed conversion since its commencement.

THE FRANKING PRIVILEGE.

The proposition to abolish the Franking privilege passed the lower House of Congress last Thursday, by a vote of ninety-eight to seventy-nine.

"It will thus be seen," says the New York Herald, "that the reform has been losing ground since last session, when there were only thirteen negative votes in the House on a like proposition, which means, not that the reform was any more cherished then than it is now, but that the fall elections were pending and that that question might have its influence on the result."

This is true. And it is in strict keeping with the whole legislation of the party majority which has controled Congress since the war. That party makes great pretentions to a love for the people, and regard for the interests of the country, when important elections are pending, but just so soon as they are passed, they fall immediately into their accustomed channel of robbery, partizan and "Ring" legislation. This is dishonesty, fraud and corruption. It is but another evidence of the truth of the repeated charges made by the Democracy of the country of the utter want of integrity or patriotism of the Radical Republican party.

The same party, in the several States, as well as the National organization, declared on every occasion last spring and summer that general amnesty and universal suffrage, equality before the law for all men, without regard to race, color or previous condition, was the principal plank of their party platform. They fought the Democratic party upon the ground that if it obtained power in the country it would not secure to all men equal civil and political rights. And yet, the party controling the Congress not only hesitates to pass a general amnesty act as they pledged themselves to do, but quibble and dilly-dally over the removal of the disabilities of those few men who have been selected by the people as their Representatives to that body.

This is Radical Republican honesty, and entirely consistent with the whole character and course of that party. A party controled by such men as your Butlers, Pools, Holdens, et id omne genus—men notoriously wanting in that integrity of principle and purpose which always characterize men truly honorable—men whose principles of patriotism consist in scheming for their own personal aggrandizement and promotion, regardless of the means, whether of despotism, knavery or trickery, they have to resort to—we say such a party, controled by such men, need not be expected to regard any obligation or duty—whether moral or political. Rooted in passion, prejudice and hatred, nourished by the blood of millions of its countrymen, and supported by an unblushingly corrupt use of the millions of treasure ground out of a sorely afflicted people, this Radical Republican tree, this off-shoot of sin and iniquity, has attained such stupendous proportions that it is now breaking to pieces of its own weight. May the time speedily come when not a single vestige of this Goliath of all deceptions, outrage and oppression shall be known no more forever!

NOMINATIONS IN ALAMANCE.

The Democrats and Conservatives of Alamance county held a County Convention at Graham on Tuesday, to nominate candidates for the vacancies in the House from that county, and in the Senate for Alamance and Guilford. We have not received an account of the proceedings, but learn from a gentleman who came down on Wednesday, that Col. McAlister was nominated for the Senate and James A. Graham, Esq., for the House of Representatives. These are excellent selections, and we have no doubt they will be triumphantly elected.

The election for the House of Representatives takes place on Saturday 24th inst., and that for Senator on Saturday 14th January. All our friends have to do is to go to work and bring out a full vote to elect the right men; will they not do it

We call the attention of the public to the sale to take place, by Thomas White, administrator, at the Court House door to-day, at 12 M., of valuable city property, &c., belonging to the estate of the late Robt. W. Haywood.

THE MEETING of the People's Building and Loan Association will take place Friday night next, at Maj. Gales' office on Fayetteville street, instead of at the Court House, as heretofore advertised.

COMME IL FAUT.—That's French, and according to our recollection, when pronounced by a Frenchman, sounds something like "com-tee-fo," and means "as it should be," or "O. K." The words are adopted as a motto by the Durham Turkish Smoking Tobbacco manufacturers, W. R. Hughes & Co., Durham, N. C., a sample of which we have been puffing for several days, and find it a very superior article; in short comme il faut.

An Absolute Safeguard.

Invalids, broken down in health and spirits by Chronic Dyspepsia, or suffering from the terrible exhaustion which follows the attacks of acute disease, the testimony of thousands who have been raised as by a miracle from a similar state of prostration by Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is a sure guarantee that by the same means you too may be strengthened and restored. But to those who stand in peril of epidemics, to all who, by reason of exposure, privations, and uncongenial climate or unhealthy pursuits, may at any moment be stricken down, this paragraph is most particularly and emphatically addressed. You, who are thus situated, are proffered an absolute safeguard against the danger that menaces you. Tone and regulate the system with this harmless medicinal Stimulant and Alterative, and you will be forearmed against the maladies whose seeds float around you in the air unseen. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters are not only a standard Tonic and Alterative throughout the United States, but they are accredited by the certificates of the most distinguished citizens of the Union, to the people of all other lands. In Canada, Australia and the West Indies, they are gradually taking place of all other stomachics, whether native or foreign, and as surely as truth is progressive and demonstration overthrows doubt, they will eventually supersede every other Invigorant and Restorative now employed in medicinal practice.

CORRESPONDENCE.

EARLE'S HOTEL, NEW YORK, November 28th, 1870.

DEAR PRESS: Well! here I am, as you will please observe, in big, bustling New York. I meant to have written you sooner, but I have caught the inflation, and like everybody else, am always in the greatest hurry, and never do anything so long as I can possibly put it off.

Nobody speaks the English language except it be, perhaps, some ignorant old fogy, too stupid to keep up with the times, or some country fellow like myself, who has not yet got the "clover seed out of his hair." I made a little inquiry regarding this falling of New Yorkers, and was told it was a disease. As everybody seems to have it, I conclude it must be epidemic, and think the best thing I can do is to transact my business with all possible haste, and "slide off on my paper collar," or, to speak more intelligibly, "walk off on my left ear."

I should probably have left the city and its temptations far behind me ere this, only I was informed that nobody thought of making their adieu without first calling upon Baldwin.

"And who is Baldwin, pray?" I innocently asked, supposing he was a lion-tamer, or candidate for Presidential honors, or a second Jim Fisk, or something. I felt ashamed of myself, though, the minute I had asked, for the fellow looked at me in that half incredulous, half pitying way that we learned people would regard a man who should say, "George Washington? seems to me I've heard of him; wasn't he up for something once?" But I soon discovered that he was only surprised that I should have been in Gotham a whole week and not have heard of Baldwin's famous corner, Broadway and Canal-st.

We went there, or, as my friend expressed it, "we went for it," dodged omnibuses, run over newsboys, jostled women, stumbled against policemen, waited ten minutes for a chance to cross Broadway, and finally arrived at New York's most noted clothing store. Everybody was there; the place was literally crammed with men, women and children, while higher than anybody's head, were stacks of coats, of pants, of vests, of children's clothes, of smoking jackets, and of every other conceivable article known to the trade. In a far corner, with his eye upon everybody and everything, I saw Baldwin. A little wiry fellow he is, with a blonde complexion, a superabundance of light brown hair, and a keen bright eye that looks straight into a man's character—or woman's either, for that matter—and knows at a glance about who they are and what they amount to. Phrenologically, I think his head would do to study, and would not be surprised to hear that Fowler & Wells had offered a premium for it.

Perhaps because I came from Orange Co. perhaps because it is his habit to entertain strangers taking a chance on their being an angel among them.

Baldwin entered into conversation, related several lively anecdotes, and in reply to my questions informed me that he kept a variety of clothing, a variety of styles, a variety of fabrics, and that the price corresponded always with the garments—though not at at all with the prices asked elsewhere. In men and boys clothing he ranged from "gay to grave, from lively to severe;" he catered to the great public's varied tastes, and the great public were his patrons. On Saturday last (the 19th inst) his sales, he informed me were over Eleven thousand six hundred dollars, all for cash, all retail, and every customer fully satisfied. I was astounded. Don't blame me, for all New York is astounded, and all other clothing merchants are looking on in blank bewilderment, at a loss to conjecture how it is done. Yet, when I glanced at the prices marked in plain figures upon each article, noted the neatness of finish, stylishness of cut, and the ready and obliging salesmen, I knew I had the key to the mystery. The air of the place charmed me; everything so harmonious, so neat, systematical and business-like. I might perhaps have remained there until this time only for my friend who now and then admonished us with a "cut it" or "cheese it" that he was in something of a hurry, and I was forced reluctantly to take my leave in company with a fine, blue Melton overcoat, for which I paid $20. As "a thing of beauty is a joy forever," I expect always to refer to this purchase with emotions of pleasure, and for the next six months, at least, to be the envy of all Middletown.

By the way, I find our friend Deming, of piano celebrity, is nearly as well known here as at home, but as I am not up to concert-pitch to-day I will defer farther mention, and hasten to subscribe myself

Yours, etc., O. K.

OXFORD, N. C., Dec. 10.

MR. EDITOR:—The citizens of Oxford were enlivened on Friday evening last, by one of those pleasant Musical Soirees, usually given at the school of Miss Mitchell and Mrs. Grant at this season. Severe critics, and thoroughly cultivated and competent judges pronounced it the very best ever given in this school, and not easily surpassed by any. Those who have regularly attended these concerts, since the opening of the Academy by its present efficient body of teachers, were particularly impressed with the great and steady progress exhibited by the pupils; the perfect time, so essential to true music, observed by each one, their thoroughly trained voices, and their graceful control of the instruments, excited the admiration and applause of the audience. Misses Littlejohn, Landis, Grandy, Royster, Kittrell, Taylor, Young, Wilkerson, Mitchell and Davis, especially, performed their parts with the highest credit to themselves and their accomplished teacher, Mrs. Morrow, who has the entire charge of the musical department in this superior school.

Save and mend the pieces, use "SPALDING'S GLUE."

FATAL TO THE TEETH are all acrid preparations. They may bleach the enamel, but they as surely dissolve and destroy it. The mild, genial balsamic and preservative Sozodont, impregnated with the Saponin of the famous tropical Soap Tree, of Chili, is the only absolutely safe article of its kind in the market, and protects the Teeth from all destructive influences, as well as keeps them from tartar.

A DIFFICULTY AND THE WAY OUT OF IT.

Many of our readers, no doubt, have read an old book called "The Invisible Rambler." This Rambler had a ring the gift of a Fairy or member of the genie family, which, when worn, rendered the wearer invisible, and by this means he was enabled to find out a great many secrets and witness great many scenes that otherwise would never have come to light.

Unfortunately, the "Rambler," in the course of time, lost this wonderful ring, and it has not been found until recently, and by the virtues of it, as a matter of experiment, the following colloquy was overheard, between a newly married couple, who had just set up house-keeping, not a thousand miles from Raleigh:

Young wife.—O, Charles! Here are letters from four of my late schoolmates, all coming to spend Christmas with us. What shall I do? Only been keeping house three weeks, and hardly learned anything about it, and no mother to call on for help—how shall I ever manage to prepare a decent dinner or any other meal for them? I know they will be laughing at me the whole time.

Young Husband.—Why, I'll tell you how to manage it easy enough. Just get a copy of Mrs. Elliott's "House wife," and glance over the receipts for making up mince pies, Gen. Lee fruit cake, jellies, Carolina syllabub and a thousand other things, and you'll get along first rate. Besides the fact that you will find the "Housewife" a great help to you, you will have the satisfaction of possessing a genuine North Carolina book, gotten up by an experienced house-keeper, and the widow of a Master Mason, at that.

Young Wife.—O, what a dear, good thoughtful fellow you are. Won't you get me the "Housewife" to-day?

Young Husband.—Certainly. And when you have looked over it and ascertained what spices, jellies, essences and the like you may need, I will bring them to you, and I have no doubt you will make out first rate, when the girls come.

Young Wife.—O, yes. I do feel so relieved by the suggestion of the "Housewife." (And here her lips approached the vicinity of his moustache, but we turned on our heel and left to avoid taking further advantage of the invisibility afforded by the Fairy ring. But on inquiry we find that the book alluded to, can be had at Alfred William's bookstore, and perhaps at other places in this city.)

Wednesday Evening Dispatches.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Nothing of importance in the House.

In the Senate the committee on Commerce were instructed to inquire into the expediency of a ship canal, connecting the Mississippi River with the Gulf of Mexico.

NEW YORK.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The "Herald's" special Havre dispatch says there is much excitement over the reported mutiny among the sailors in the fleet. The advance upon Havre is intended to cover an attack upon Cherbourg.

There are four iron clads in the Cherbourg harbor.

The "World's" special from Tours on the 11th instant, says that General De hanney's telegram says that the four day's fighting near Beaugency was substantially a French victory. The army now hold positions only five miles distant from those held on the 7th inst. Three French corps are near at hand. The French loss was not greater than that inflicted on the enemy.

FOREIGN.

VERSAILLES, Dec. 8.—A summons to surrender was flatly refused. It is doubted whether the threatened bombardment can be effected, as no guns are in position, though they are at hand and could be soon mounted; three hundred guns could be placed in position during the night, but the forts would silence them at dawn.

BRUSSELS, Dec. 13.—Garibaldi has resigned his command and returns to Italy.

The Prussians are preparing to occupy Luxemburg. The movement is sanctioned by the King of Holland.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Dec. 10.—Diplomatic negotiations between Russia and Turkey are unsatisfactory, and there is danger of a conflict at any moment.

LONDON, Dec. 12.—The Eastern question is again being agitated. The Russian Minister at Constantinople demands further amendments. England is taking precautionary measures.

Wednesday Night Dispatches.

WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—C. C. Bowen member of Congress from South Carolina, arrested yesterday for bigamy, to day gave bond in $5,000 to answer the charge. He asks an early trial.

The Senate Committee on the Judiciary have made a unanimous report that Indians are not citizens of the United States under the fourteenth amendment to the Constitution of the United States, the treaties and laws always having regarded them as independent nations, and has not interfered with their local administrations.

The House considered the bill for the full and general grace, amnesty and oblivion of all wrongful acts, doings or omissions of all persons engaged in the war of the late rebellion. The exceptions are those educated at West-point or Annapolis, members of either House of Federal or Confederate Congress, heads of Federal Executive departments, ministers abroad, Judges of Federal Courts and those holding similar offices under the Confederate government, members of conventions who voted for or signed ordinances of secession or Governors of States which were in rebellion, Confederates who treated cruelly or otherwise contrary to the usages of war, federal prisoners; also persons entrusted with funds which they have not accounted for, deserters and bounty jumpers. The property exceptions are as follows: All property wherein the United States or third parties have become interested by sale, forfeiture or confiscation, used now or heretofore for federal cemeteries. Every right of action and liability arising on any ordinance or contract in aid of the rebellion and every such right shall be deemed invalid. Butler reported the bill.

In explanation Butler said it was drawn, mutatis mutandis, from the amnesty bill passed by the English Parliament after the Scotch rebellion in 1745. He quoted from the preamble and body of the act, and referred to the exceptions in it, among which were all persons by the name of McGregor, and all who had been in favor of having the French invade Great Britain. He wished that the state of the country was such that all of the exceptions could be struck out, but such was not the state of the country. The bill swept out everything that had been done wrong on one side as well as on the other, and said that no more suits could be brought for acts done or committed during the war, either by those who warred in behalf of the United States, or by those who warred against it. It threw the mantle of charity over all. (Much more said by Butler in the same strain is reported, for which we have not room.—ED.)

LAWRENCE asked, how many persons the bill would relieve?

Butler replied that it would relieve every body in the South who was under legal trouble or vexation, every Postmaster, Sheriff or Constable before the war, &c., and the others could come to Congress afterwards and ask for a removal of their disabilities.

Beck offered a substitute for the bill, containing exceptions of those educated at West Point or Annapolis, members of the Federal Congress before the war, heads of Executive Departments of the United States, foreign ministers of the United States, and Judges of any Courts under the United States.

Farnsworth offered a substitute for the whole bill, that "all political disabilities imposed by the 3rd section of the 14th amendment of the Constitution are hereby removed."

Bingham offered an amendment excepting all who were Senators or Representatives in 1860 or 1861, who were officers in the army or navy in those years, or heads of departments, Judges of U. S. Courts, foreign ministers, and all who, in violation of that amendment, have held office since the 1st of June, 1870.

Butler announced his intention to have the vote taken on the bill at 8 o'clock to-morrow.

Beck opposed the bill. He would have offered a similar amendment to Farnsworth's, but that he feared the House might not be prepared to vote for a general amnesty bill, but might do so when certain classes were excepted. He hoped the House would adopt Farnsworth's substitute, and if not, that it would adopt his own. He argued that nine-tenths of the matter in the bill was matter over which the reconstruction committee had no jurisdiction, but it belonged to the Judiciary committee, and he feared, if the bill passed by a simple majority it would be contended that it was valid in reference to all subjects in it that did not require a two-thirds majority, while in reference to removal of political disabilities, it would not be valid. He declared that instead of general amnesty, it was a bill of pains and penalties, making odious discriminations. He thought the Republican press and party desired general amnesty, and they had lost State after State by refusal to pass such a bill, and that this would continue to be the case so long as Congress refused to pass such a bill.

Potter advocated the Farnsworth substitute, and argued for its adoption as most generous and most wise. At the conclusion of his speech the bill went over until to-morrow.

The committee reported the Legislative, Judicial and Executive appropriation bill.

FOREIGN.

LONDON, Dec. 13.—The German batteries command every point of Paris. The bombardment is fixed for the 19th of December. Garibaldi writes favorably of the condition of the army of the Loire.

It is reported that Bourbaki has repulsed the 12th Prussian corps. The Prussians are in force 16 miles from Havre, which is defended by a large force, and 300 guns, manned by marines.

It is rumored that Trochu has cut through the Prussian lines.

ROADS AND ROAD MAKING.

Editor Commercial: The importance and necessity of good roads is an acknowledged fact. Rapidity and cheapness in transportation are vital necessities to the commercial, manufacturing, and agricultural prosperity of every section of country, more especially is it true in reference to Rome and Floyd counties. These facts have long been recognized by the progressive citizens of our whole country, and hence the perfection of roads has been a problem to which engineers have in all ages assiduously applied themselves. In the North where the subject of good thoroughfares have received more attention than from the people of any other section, we are assured that although they have arrived at a certain excellence, yet they are far from being perfect, but the continued close attention given to the roads keeps them, in the worst season, much better than our roads are in the most favored. The importance of even a slight advance in improvement has kept alive the interest in this department, and year after year such improvements are made as will make more perfect their system of roads.

A notable number of the patents applied for are for the various compositions for road surfaces, and for methods of road building.

Probably the most remarkably successful system of road making ever yet tried is the macadam road. Notwithstanding its expensive character, it to-day covers more surface in Europe than any other.—In our country, except in the vicinity of large towns and cities, this road is not much employed.

The comparative sparseness of our population, and the small amount of travel in the rural districts will not justify its construction in this section. Roads in this country must, from the nature of the case, be constructed of such materials as are available immediately along their lines, and must necessarily be more or less imperfect. In this connection we take from a late number of the Scientific American, the following excellent extract from an article on the subject of "Roads and Road-Making" which we commend to our people as well worthy their serious consideration.

In this as in other countries the great enemy of roads is frost, and the only way to even partially prevent its ravages is to construct roads high enough to allow thorough drainage. The flat surfaces permitted on most roads in this country is their most radical defect. The result is rivers of mud in spring and autumn, and frozen ruts of indescribable ugliness and discomfort in winter until such time as the snow covers and fills them.

A few days' labor devoted to thorough ditching along the sides of roads and elevating the centers where they have settled below the proper grade would greatly mitigate the evils complained of. This is generally done, when done at all, by throwing back on the road the soil excavated from the ditches, a very erroneous method and almost a sheer waste of labor. Such soil is generally composed of comminuted and pulverized material washed off from the road, and will only temporarily pack. As soon as it becomes very dry in summer it grinds up into a dust heap, and is blown off by the winds, and washed off again by rains.

All soil used to raise the level of roads should be new soil, not the washings of the roads, which latter should be carted away. Where roads are much traveled these washings are a valuable manure, and it would pay well to cart them into the lands lying along such roads, from which soil of inferior fertility might be taken to form the roadways.

Wherever practicable, a deep hard bed of stone or timber should be laid below the reach of frost, upon which the surface material should be distributed. Gravel stands unrivaled for road surfaces, but it is not available in many localities. Broken stone, however, is obtainable oftentimes where gravel cannot be got, and answers the purpose very well.

We have seen a road laid through a swamp made with a bed of rough logs, well sunk down, and covered with a mixture of blue clay and broken stone, which was excellent in all respects, having almost as good and permanent a surface as macadam.

It is usual to work country roads early in the summer, to repair the defects caused by spring upheavals. This done, they are generally left till the ensuing season, when the same operation is repeated. But a little labor late in the fall would pay well on most roads. This labor should be expended in securing proper drainage. All sluices should be opened if stopped, the roads raised where the summer wear and tear have depressed them, and their surfaces made smooth, so that the water may run off with the utmost facility. Neglect in these particulars is always dearly paid for in the miring of teams and wagons, and in wear and tear of both animals and vehicles.

The above suggestions are all plain and practical. The keeping up of a road can be done at much less cost when properly done once or twice a year, when the ground is in the condition to wash away as soon as it is thrown up.

We trust that our road commissioners, and our practical men generally will give this subject their attention, so that we may be enabled to devise a system of road-making as free from the objections usually urged against the roads in this county as possible. FARMER.

We have plenty of flippant denunciations of fine clothes, and an abundance of grave animadversions of the sin and folly of extravagance in apparel, but scarcely an essay can befound touching the aesthetic and morale of dress as constituting a study worthy to be ranked among the fine arts, not less than architecture, music and sculpture. It was an observation of Lavater that persons habitually attentive to dress, display the same regularity in their domestic affairs. "Young women," says he, "who neglect their toilet, and manifest little concern about their apparel, indicate in this very particular a disregard of order; a mind but little adapted to the details of housekeeping; a deficiency of taste and of qualities that inspire love. The girl of eighteen who desires not to please, will be a dut and a sloven at twenty-five." It is a great mistake in women to suppose that they may throw off all care about dress with their celibacy, as if husbands had less state than suitors; or as if wives had less need than mistresses of the advantage of elegant and tasteful apparel. An old writer says, with a heavy emphasis, "it is one of the moral duties of every married woman to appear well dressed in the presence of her husband." To effect this, however, expensive attire is by no means essential. The simplest robe may evince the wearer's taste as truly as the most costly gown of moire antique. But how rare a quality is good taste! In the mere matter of propriety and harmony of colors, there is room for a treatise which has yet to be written by some one thoroughly proficient in the aesthetics of dress. Even the simpler laws, though pretty generally understood, are constantly neglected.

A thief, who lately broke open a grocer's storehouse, exercised himself on the pies that he went to take tea.

THE

WIDOWS AND ORPHANS

BENEFIT LIFE INSURANCE COMPANY

OF NEW YORK.

Cash Assets over $1,500,000,

ISSUES ALL FORMS OF NON FORFEITABLE, WHOLE LIFE AND ENDOWMENT POLICIES, on the Mutual Cash Plan, declaring dividends annually after the first annual premium paid. Assets exclusively Cash, with no portion of its reserve fund in premiums notes, consequently its "reserve" is stronger than that of any company doing business in this State. No "definite surrender values guaranteed" as an inducement to new business, but reference is made to the average amount paid on each surrendered policy, as shown by the New York Insurance Reports, 1869, as evidence of having paid larger surrender values, than has been given under a minimum "Definite Cash Surrender Value." Death losses have not occurred out of several hundred policy holkeys in this State, which fact must establish the better ability of the Company to pay larger dividends than companies having an excessive mortality, the result of a selection of bad risks. "Fictitious Dividends are not declared, but dividends are given from the actual surplus, in accordance with the Company's charter. The attention of the public is invited to the following comparison of cost, demonstrating the advantages over ordinary insurances, of the POLICIES VALUABLE IN LIFE, AS WELL AS AT DEATH!!

THE BROOKLYN LIFE IS THE ONLY COMPANY IN AMERICA WHICH GUARANTEES

DEFINITE, CASH SURRENDER VALUES,

IN CASE A POLICY IS FORFEITED FOR NON-PAYMENT OF PREMIUM.

The BROOKLYN LIFE enjoys the highest reputation for judgement of investment, economy of management, and skill and care in the selection of risks; upon which elements of administration the security of a Life insurance Corporation depends.

The laws of New York compel Companies in that State to calculate the cash value of their Policies, each and every year, and a certain legal standard of reserve and accumulation must be held by the companies to meet all their Liabilities.

Insurers in looking around for Companies in which to insure, should carefully seek for this important safeguard. It will be found in the BROOKLYN LIFE.

2. None of this is made up of Promissory Notes, as in many Companies.
3. Its Cash Income per annum is over $6,500,000 00, and steadily growing larger.

6. Such payments are made in Cash, and not partly in Cancelled Notes, as is the case in many Companies.

8. The sum of $3,500,000 00, and upwards, in cash divided among Policy Holders, (this included the dividend for the present year,) as profits of the business.
9. All the profits of the business are annually divided among the assured Equitably, instead of being wholly or partially distributed among the Stockholders, as is the case in all "Mixed" and "Proprietary" Companies.
10. Dividends are invariably available, as case in payment of Premiums.
11. The dividends are made from the start, and not postponed until the lapse of several years, as in many Companies.
12. The Society deals Equitably with its policy holders.
13. The Equitable has made More progress since its organization than any other Life Company in the World.

15. Its modes of applying dividends are more numerous and more advantageous than those of any other Company in the World.
16. It issues all the popular styles of policy, including "Ten Year Non-Forfeiting" and "Endowment Policies."
17. The amount of new business during the year, ending December 1, 1869, was $51,021,000.
18. Its Policies average larger in amount than those of any other Company, showing that Capitalists select the Equitable for purposes of investment.
19. The profits of the business are apportioned to the assured on the "Contribution Plan," which is conceded to be the only equitable mode of division, and not by the mode adopted by many Companies.
20. It is as liberal in the conduct of its business as is consistent with the safety of the assured, and does not sacrifice proper caution to an ambition to increase the nominal amount of its business, as is the case with many new Companies.
21. It is the favorite Company in the United States, as is shown by its new business last year, being nearer $15,000,000 greater than any other Company.
